Liner Hits Freighter, Seven Probably Drowned

Norwegian Freighter Besseggen Anchored Near Statue of Liberty Sinks Following Crash—Twenty-four of Crew Picked Up—Captain Blames Strong Tide.

New York, Oct. 15 (AP).—Steaming to sea with a full load of passengers, her lights ablaze, the great liner Paris crashed into the side of the Norwegian freighter Besseggen, anchored near the Statue of Liberty, early today. Seven members of the freighter's crew of 31 probably were lost as the vessel rolled over and sank within ten minutes. The Paris was not damaged and proceeded to sea after standing by and saving some of the crew.

There was no time for the launching of life boats as the water swirled through a great gap ripped in the side of the freighter. The crew, aroused from sleep, leaped for their lives, escaping from the whirlpool formed as the vessel settled, but the "black gang" in the engine room had no time to escape.

Tugs and Ferries to Rescue.

Nearby tugs and ferryboats rushed to the scene and lowered life boats. Twenty-four of the crew, including Captain Ludwig Hassell, his wife and four year old son were picked up.

Hours after the disaster, a check-up of the crew indicated that seven probably had been drowned in the hold of the craft.

After clearing Quarantine, for France, Captain Yves Thomas, master of the Paris, sent a wireless message to the offices of the line, blaming the strong tide for the collision. He had brought the liner safely down the channel past a string of barges cutting across his bow, he said, but in swinging out to avoid the barges he found himself perilously near an anchored freighter which he cleared with difficulty.

Freighter Cut in Twain

As the Paris swung her nose away from the silent vessel the hulk of the Besseggen loomed out of the darkness. The powerful tide was too much and the sharp prow of the liner cut the freighter in twain.

Captain Thomas's wireless reported the launching of a life boat which brought back eight survivors. The Paris stopped for more than an hour before proceeding.

Boats Rush to Scene.

Two ferryboats running between the Battery on Manhattan Island to St. George, Staten Island, halted in their trips and joined a lifeboat crew from the Paris, police boats and lighters in an effort to lift the struggling survivors from the water.

One ferryboat's excited passengers, seeking to respond to the cries from those floundering in the water, fought to reach life preservers and lower lifeboats. One ferry landed 13 survivors at the Battery while the second, bound for Staten Island, rescued several others. Eight were picked up by the Paris.

The hunt for survivors continued through the night, long after the silent waters of the main channel, the busiest steamship lane in the world, had completely submerged the freighter.

The Paris stood through the night at Quarantine, several miles away, and resumed its voyage to Havre at 6 a. m., after immigration men had removed the eight rescued survivors. The liner was not damaged. Captain Yves Thomas reported the crash by wireless to police headquarters before the voyage was resumed.

Captain Ludwig Hassell of the freighter, his wife and his four-year-old son were rescued by a ferryboat and taken to the marine hospital. Other survivors were taken to St. Vincent's hospital on Staten Island where most of them were treated.

Three Possible Causes.

Three possible causes of the collision were advanced by witnesses: A strong northwest wind which swept across the upper bay, an ebb tide which at the point where the collision occurred runs with considerable strength, and the sunken hulk, lying a short distance away, of a freighter which went down in the channel last fall, about a half a mile from the Statue of Liberty.

Observers were of the opinion that all three of these causes might have had a contributory share in the crashing making the handling of the big liner a difficult task.

Harbor Traffic Hurt.

The sinking of the Besseggen raised another obstacle in the direct path of harbor traffic to the sea, resting in a position with the first sunken ship almost sufficient to block the entire channel. To avoid the two hulks, authorities said, it will be necessary for traffic to swing perilously close to the mud banks on Governor's Island.

The Besseggen, registered at Stein, Norway, had been in the service of the American-Cuban Line of this city, bringing sugar from Cuba. The vessel had sailed from Cardenas, Cuba, on September 19, and had been anchored in the upper bay below the Statue of Liberty since Oc-

History of Church.

The following history of the church has been prepared by the pastor, the Rev. E. O. Clarke.

In the year 1848 our church, the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church came into existence in Kingston, N. Y. The following is an exact copy of the organization document.

"Know all men by these presents: This is to certify that the male members of the congregation that statedly met for divine worship, known by the name and title of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church in the village of Kingston, Ulster county and state of New York, pursuant to due notice given, did assemble at the aforesaid place of worship on the first day of May in the year of our Lord, 1848, for the purpose of organizing themselves under the title of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church of Kingston, according to the provisions of an act of legislature of the state of New York, for such purposes. It was on motion resolved that the board of trustees should consist of not more than nine and not less than three persons, who shall be lovers of the doctrines and discipline of the above named church. Whereupon the Rev. William H. Bishop was called to the chair to act as judge of the elections and George Washington, associate judge.

New Supervisor For Dairy Work

Wendell C. Knapp Succeeds Howard Rickey as Supervisor of Ulster County Farm Bureau Improvement Association Work, Now in Third Year.

The second year of dairy improvement work under the Ulster County Farm Bureau Dairy Improvement Association was completed on September 30, according to a report by Manager Wigsten, of the Farm Bureau. Organized on October 1, 1925, the association has enjoyed marked success, proving a boon to Ulster County Dairymen. Dairymen in this locality have grasped the opportunity to belong and to get complete and accurate records on each animal, figured and tabulated by an experienced supervisor. Members for 1925 and 1926 were John H. Beatty & Son, Kingston, W. A. Warren, Matt DeWitt, Edward Muller, E. J. Schoonmaker, Lemuel Atkins, John L. Schoonmaker, Albert Myers, Millard Davis, John C. Hoornbeck, Foordmore Farms, Benjamin Kelly, Andrew Birkenshaw, Alfred Rider, Edna Burger, Frank DuBois, T. J. Tucker, Shawangunk Valley Stock Farms, A. D. McKinstry & Son, Kate E. Jansen, George Dusinberre, Fred DuBois, Pratt Boice.

Howard Rickey, of Horseheads, N. Y., who has been supervisor of the work since February, reports lively interest in the work among the members with many of them utilizing the records to good advantage. The members report entire satisfaction with the service Supervisor Rickey has given them and regret the fact that he resigned his position on October 1 to assume a position elsewhere. To carry on the work for the 1927-28 year, Manager Wigsten has employed Wendell C. Knapp of Chepachet, N. Y., who comes highly recommended by the State College at Ithaca. Mr. Knapp, who is a graduate of Morrisville State School of Agriculture, is already on the job, having tested during the past week for John Beatty, W. A. Warren, Matt DeWitt, Edward Muller and Millard Davis.

Vacancies in the association membership made by the withdrawal of George Dusinberre, A. D. McKinstry, Lemuel Atkins and E. J. Schoonmaker are now being filled. Dairymen interested may communicate with the Farm Bureau office. Prompt action will insure them of a test for October.

Action on Local Bus Petitions

Ferraro's Line Extended to Goldrick's Landing—Acker to Operate Between Kingston and East Kingston—Tigar's Route Changed in East Kingston.

Albany, Oct. 15.—The Public Service Commission yesterday granted a certificate to Frank Ferraro, operating the Saugerties-Kingston Bus Line, for an extension of his bus route from the Kingston-Saugerties highway to Goldrick's Landing and returning to the state road at Saunders Corners.

The commission denied an application by Ferraro to operate between Kingston and East Kingston.

The petition of James Acker to operate a bus line between East Kingston over the state highway to Glasco to the bus terminal in Kingston, was granted. Acker's certificate, however, contains a restriction that he shall not carry passengers locally in Kingston or on the Flatbush road over which Ferrarro now operates.

Acker has been operating a bus line between East Kingston and Kingston for about eighteen years, but failed to get a state certificate. Evidence on the hearng was to the effect that his service has been good and in view of his past operations the commission believes that he should be awarded the certificate to operate between East Kingston and Kingston.

F. A. Tigar, now operating between East Kingston and Kingston over another route, was given an amended certificate covering his operations on certain streets in East Kingston. The petition to amend the route was in the interest of public safety as it is difficult to turn his busses around on the streets in which the busses operate. There was no opposition to the petition.

Rabbi Rose's Topic.

Local Churches to Care for 50 Near East Children

Appeals by Speakers at Luncheon Results in Adoption of Suggestion That Kingston Churches Will Assume Responsibility for 50 Children at Cost of $3,000 a Year.

A luncheon was given at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday noon at which several members of the clergy of the city and prominent citizens were guests of Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, who had called the meeting in order that the work of the Near East Relief might be explained. There were 48 persons present when at the conclusion of the luncheon served in the Coffee Shop, Judge Hasbrouck presented Harold C. Jacquith, managing director of the Near East at Athens. Mr. Jacquith has but recently returned to the United States after spending seven years at Athens in the work being carried on by the Near East Relief.

In 1925, when Judge Hasbrouck was abroad, he visited Athens and observed the work being carried on by the Near East Relief. At that time he called at Mr. Jacquith's headquarters but found Mr. Jacquith engaged elsewhere in the country districts. However, after seeing what was being done for the children of the country by the Near East Relief he became interested in the cause and on Friday arranged for the presenting of Mr. Jacquith to the people of Kingston.

Repaying Meager Hospitality.

Mr. Jacquith said that at the time Judge Hasbrouck visited the Near East they had endeavored to pay proper homage to the dignity of the bench and the importance of Kingston but they had not dreamed that the rather meager hospitality would be so richly repaid, as evidenced by the luncheon and the gathering of friends of Judge Hasbrouck.

The speaker then in a most interesting manner told of the situation in the Near East. He spoke of the beginning of the Near East Relief as a war measure. At that time the Red Cross and the Near East Relief by mutual agreement stood at Constantinople and one looked east and the other west. The work in the east was undertaken and since that time much has been accomplished. At first it was the need of feeding starving peoples and clothing nakedness, assisting to ward off death. Money was raised and spent for that purpose and the work was continued. Then came the Smyrna disaster. He described this terrible disaster and spoke of the work which was needed and which had been done to assist the stricken people. One million four hundred thousand people were made homeless. The Near East Relief had 65,000 children under shelter in barracks and government buildings. Since then five years have passed. The work has been carried on.

Caring for Children.

Following the disaster the Near East Relief went to work through the assistance received at home here and took care of the stricken, homeless children. They were clothed and fed. Relatives were sought out and the older children were placed as apprentices in shops and homes. Those who were too small and whose relatives were gone were gathered into orphanages where they were trained for self-support. The boys were taught trades or agriculture and the girls were taught home making under American supervision. When a child became 16 and was self-supporting, he or she was sent back to the villages and allowed to make life's way. There are still 33,000 children, boys and girls, within these orphanages who are continuing to be trained with American idealism. The average age of those still in the orphanages is 11 years.

Mr. Jacquith said this was the first time that idealism has had the opportunity to influence the masses, or permeating into villages, of influencing whole countries. Those who have been sent out from the orphanages into the villages may be quickly distinguished by their different appearance and attitude, their training is everywhere in evidence and is making for a better and stronger country. Greece is the only country in Europe today that holds America on the same idealistic plane that all countries did in 1919, and it is because America has continued to express that idealism through deeds and work.

Appeals for Help.

Following Mr. Jacquith's talk Judge Hasbrouck, who is presiding at the October term of the Supreme court, turned the meeting over to the Rev. Dr. F. B. Seeley in order that he might resume court sessions. Dr. Seeley called upon John T. Birge, district supervisor of the Near East

Review Testimony In Census Probe

Le Boeuf Will Also Issue Calls For Additional Witnesses Next Week—Counsel for Mrs. Knapp Leaves For Syracuse.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 15 (AP).—Burning of enumeration records by Florence E. S. Knapp, who as secretary of state in 1925 conducted the taking of the census, today was one of the chapters of testimony before Randall J. Le Boeuf, Jr., Moreland Act commissioner investigating the administration of the census fund by Mrs. Knapp. This and the evidence that the former secretary of state had endorsed expense accounts of others, using the cash so procured to pay personal bills, stood out from a mass of tesitmony procured by the commissioner in two days of hearings.

Other evidence placed in Mr. Le Boeuf's hands tended to show that Mrs. Knapp had taken numerous trips sometimes out of the state, and that expenses so incurred had been paid from census funds. Questioning by the commissioner brought from Miss Julia M. Ryan, chief clerk of the Civil Service Commission, the admission that she had approved census payrolls without proper authorization. This admission included the statement that she had given approval to payrolls containing amounts for her sister and the wife of an employe of the Civil Service Commission, although she was aware that neither of them had done any census work.

Immediately after the hearing closed yesterday, Alexander Otis, counsel for Mrs. Knapp, departed for Syracuse, supposedly to consult with the woman whose administration is undre the fire of the Cities Census Committee. Mr. Otis has been denied a voice in the hearings by the commissioner.

With no hearings scheduled for today, Mr. LeBoeuf declined to discuss his future moves other than to say that he expects the investigation will occupy several more days after its resumption Wednesday morning. He intends reviewing recorded testimony over the week end and issuing calls for additional witnesses early next week.

Report Monday in Fishing Net Case

Jury Which Tried Case Brought by Highland Fishermen Against Transportation Company to Report Sealed Verdict—Commission Action on Trial.

The jury which heard the evidence in the actions brought by Richard Bilyou and James J. Relyea of Highland against the Standard Transportation Corporation, retired Friday afternoon at 2:30 and was instructed to bring in a sealed verdict at 2 o'clock Monday when court convenes. The jury was still out when court recessed.

At the conclusion of the Bilyou-Relyea actions a jury was taken in an action brought by Bertha Bleier of this city against Thomas Rice, an action for money damages on contract. Miss Bleier seeks to recover a commission of $480 from Mr. Rice, alleging that he agreed to pay her five per cent commission on the contract price of a house for which Mr. Rice drew plans and supervised during construction. She alleges he agreed to pay her that sum if she could secure the contract for him as architect. It is alleged the house cost $9,600. The answer is a general denial.

William A. Kaercher and Vernon Kelder appear for Judge William D. Cunningham, attorney of record for plaintiff, and Frederick Stephan, Jr., appears for the defendant. The case will be continued Monday afternoon.

WONDERLY COMPANY TO HOLD EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY SALE

The Wonderly Company of Wall street will observe its eighth anniversary with one of the biggest sales ever held, commencing Monday. Eight years ago the present owner of The Wonderly Company took over the drygoods store, which was formerly G. A. Hart & Company, which had been established for half a century and was well and favorably known not only in Kingston and Ulster county but throughout the Hudson river valley. The present owner of the business in the past eight years has maintained the prestige attained by those who had originally established the business. Elsewhere in The Freeman this evening will be found a full page advertisement of the anniversary sale, which can be profitably read by every one. Its publication on Saturday will afford ample opportunity for careful study.

Rescuers Tell of Ruth's Composure

"Thank You Very Much" Were Ruth Elder's First Words When Taken Aboard Tanker—American Fliers Will Go to Paris—Refuse to Grant Any Interviews.

Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores, Oct. 15 (AP).—Vivacious as ever and minus neither her poise nor her lipstick, Ruth Elder stepped ashore here this morning, with her co-pilot George W. Haldeman, from their daring venture over the Atlantic in the monoplane American Girl.

It was a far cry from her starting point near New York but the pretty American aviatrix looked to the great crowd that had come to welcome her as though she had just left Broadway.

With Captain Goos's hat perched jauntily on her rebellious curls, Miss Elder, after posing for hundreds of photographs stepped from the Barendrecht into a waiting launch and bid a cheerful farewell to the crew and the captain of the Barendrecht which had lost two days in coming to the Azores to land the fliers.

"Thank you very much," were Ruth's first words when she and Haldeman were taken aboard the Dutch tanker Barendrecht on Thursday, the crew said today. Then she produced her lipstick, apparently oblivious to the fact that she had just stepped from the very jaws of death to safety. So deep an impression did her sang froid, in face of the great danger that she had just escaped, make on the crew of the Dutch tanker that the lipstick episode was duly noted in an official summary of the rescue as given out by the Barendrecht's radio operator.

Although Miss Elder was unwilling to give an interview until later, it was learned in the statement given out by Radio Officer Meder that the explosion of the American Girl's engine followed the bumping of the plane against the side of the Barendrecht after the wings had been broken off by rough seas. The flames from the plane shot up so high that had the Barendrecht carried benzoine she would have been blown up, it was stated.

Will Sail to Paris.

The American fliers, although balked of their hope to span the Atlantic in a nonstop flight to Paris, intend to get there just the same, planning to remain in Horta until Monday when they will take the Portuguese mail boat Lima for Lisbon en route to Paris.

The Barendrecht, which had played so vital a part in the stirring drama of the American Girl, arrived at Horta at eight o'clock this morning local time. Despite the early hour and a heavy rain, a great crowd had gathered and went aboard the Barendrecht full of questions and armed with innumerable cameras.

Tells of Rescue.

Miss Elder was unwilling to give an interview until later, but Radio Officer Meder gave out the following statement:

"The plane circled around the Barendrecht at 10:30 a. m. on the 13th, asking our position and then came alongside in mid-ocean. Although a land plane she did not sink and the fliers climbed to the top. Miss Elder donned her safety suit, but Haldeman did not.

The Barendrecht put out a boat despite the fact that the seas were very rough and took the fliers aboard. It tried to pick up the plane, but the wings broke off and the motor bumped against the side of the ship and then exploded and sank, shooting flames up as high as the bridge. Had the Barendrecht carried benzine or gasoline, she would have been blown up.

"Miss Elder and Haldeman were all right except for fatigue. The first thing Miss Elder did was to produce her lipstick and her first words were, 'thank you very much.'

"The passports, parachutes and luggage were lost in the ocean. We left the American Girl in pieces lifting and sinking slowly."

Members of the Barendrecht's crew said that Miss Elder had been charming to all of them during the trip from the time she and Haldeman were picked up until their arrival today.

Happy and Friendly.

Showing this same happy friendliness this morning, her blue gray eyes appearing to defy fatigue and the scarlet of her sweater and stockings vieing with the excited rosy tint of her cheeks, Miss Elder stood on the deck of the Barendrecht with captain's hat poised jauntily on her rebellious curls. Her airiness and daintiness contrasted strongly with the silence of her co-pilot in their great adventure. Haldeman, who seemed content to let her hold the center of the stage.

The American girl was restless, now posing for photographs in midship, now stopping for a few words in

French Aviators Have Conquered South Atlantic

Costes and Le Brix Make Trip From African Coast to Tip of Brazilian Peninsula in 19 Hours—Average Speed About 113 Miles an Hour.

Pernambuco, Oct. 15 (AP).—Two daring French aviators, Dieudonne Costes and Lieutenant Joseph Le Brix, have conquered the South Atlantic in one hop, a feat many times attempted but never before accomplished.

Winging across the ocean from St. Louis, Senegal, they brought their Breguet military biplane "Nungesser-Coli" down on the flying field near Port Natal, on the tip of the Brazilian peninsula, at 11:40 o'clock last night to receive the ovations of a great crowd and the official congratulations of Brazilian officials.

The start from St. Louis was made at 5:23 yesterday morning, Senegal time. Flying over Dakar they headed out across the Atlantic at 7:40. The distance from Dakar to Port Natal is about 2,150 miles, which with the three hour time difference, gives them an elapsed time from the African to the South American coast of 19 hours and an average speed of about 113 miles an hour.

From the time of their departure from the African coast until their landing there was no report of their having been sighted by any vessel and their approach to the Brazilian coast was heralded only when signals from their wireless were picked up by ships north of Fernando do Noronha Island.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE HELPFUL ROBINS

I have been telling you many bird stories of late as so many things happen in Birdland during the summer months, and before long there will not be so many to tell and I will tell you other stories.

The Humming Birds Were Hovering Near.

But before I forget it I must tell you of something that happened just when the honeysuckles were beginning to bud—some months ago.

Already the humming birds were hovering near and had built a nest right in the heart of a vine.

This vine was in a nice old-fashioned garden, but nearby was a vacant lot which was very swampy.

I am going to tell you about the mother humming bird whose little ones were attacked by a snake but they were rescued by the brave robins.

The snake had come over from the vacant field and had crawled up the honeysuckle vine as the mother humming bird had gone off for some food.

They had cried out in terror and had flown over to the nest.

The mother humming bird heard the cries and hurried back, but the robins had frightened off the snake.

The snake was not a very large one, and really he had been frightened by all the noise the robins had made, and when he saw so many birds flying toward him he got away very quickly.

The mother humming bird got back just as the snake was leaving the nest.

She couldn't thank the robins enough for flying to the rescue and saving her beloved ones, but the robins did not want any thanks.

They were thankful, too, that the dear little birds had been saved, for birds are very loyal to one another and will risk any danger to save each other.

All the children around who heard of this afterward said they were so glad that the little humming birds were saved, for they loved seeing them have such a good time in the honeysuckle vines, and the more of them there were, they said, the nicer it made the summer seem.

Then they all thought it was very brave of the robins to come to the rescue.

He Got Away.

But they knew how the birds and animals will help each other and will not be afraid in danger if someone they love or care for is in distress.

After the humming bird mother had recovered from the awful fright, and after the little ones had shown that they were perfectly well and strong, with no ill effects from their fright, the mother humming bird invited the robins to partake of the delicious meal she had succeeded in getting before the cries came from the robins.

So a fine feast was had.

Something to Play

You have played "Birds-Beasts-and-Fish," of course? A modern variation of this old game makes laughter and fun. The crowd sit in an informal circle; the person who is "It" stands in the center. This leader starts out just as usual, saying over and over, "Birds, beasts, fish," and within himself singles out some one to point to. Suddenly turning to the chosen one he points, and calls out a common noun—trees, automobiles, colors, shoes, poets, musicians, trades, inventions, explorers, poems—and the one pointed out must name a "kind" of whatever has been called, and do it before the leader can swiftly count 10. If that person loses in the contest, he in turn takes the floor and is "It."

For instance, you might answer elm or mulberry for a tree, Ford for an automobile, Shakespeare or Mother Goose for a poet, Mozart or Beethoven for a musician, plumbing for a trade, the cotton-gin for an invention, Livingston or Amundsen for an explorer, the "Lady of the Lake" for a poem. But you must answer a kind that has not been given during the game, or you are "It" anyway.

A little boy who had lived in a city was enjoying his first holiday in the country. He was staying at a farmhouse, and one morning he saw a peacock in the farmer's garden. Running excitedly to his mother he exclaimed: "Mother, one of the chickens is in bloom!"

Another star of the Metropolitan Opera joins the famous galaxy of Atwater Kent artists, when Nina Morgana, soprano, broadcasts for the first time at 9:15 on Sunday night through WEAF and the Red Network. Mme. Morgana will be assisted on this occasion by Mary Chaney, the young violinist who was hailed with great promise at her debut last year. At 9:30 the Morley Singers with John Mundy, 'cellist, will present a program of old glees and madrigals for the entertainment of the fans of WJZ and WHAM. Other highlights well worth tuning in are the Bandbox Hour with a concert orchestra and a mixed quartet through WLW at 7:15, the musical exposition, "The Death of Minnehaha," through WJZ and WBAL at 7:30, the Chicago Philharmonic Trio through WHT, and the mixed quartet from the Little Brown Church in the Vale through WLS. In the afternoon at 4:00 will be held the men's conference from the Bedford Branch of the Y. M. C. A. with a talk by Dr. S. Parks Cadman, and music by the Gloria Trumpeters, a chime soloist and a choir. The complete program which will last about an hour and a half will be radiated by WEAF, WEEI and WSAI.

They're Not Bugs

Fire-flies or lightning-bugs are neither flies nor bugs, says Nature Magazine. They are true beetles belonging to the family Lampyridae, meaning "to shine."

STILL A YEAR AHEAD

Only the Perfected Whippet has all these Vital 1928 Advantages

In the perfected Whippet you may now see the advantages which are characteristic of the modern trend in light car design.

More than 125,000 owners have driven more than 400,000,000 miles. 45% tell us they chose the Whippet for its unequalled economy; 46% were influenced by the greater safety of BIG 4-wheel brakes; others mention its comfort and roominess; still others its attractive, modern design with such features as low center of gravity, full-vision body, force-feed lubrication and silent timing chain.

Through the friendly suggestions of these loyal owners it has been possible to develop the finer Willys-Overland Whippet of today. We invite you to see and drive this modern car.

The most economical light car, Whippet holds the A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast economy record.

Oversize balloon tires and genuine Gabriel Snubbers insure smoother riding.

How State Aids The Children

Surgical or Medical Care, Appliances, Education, Etc., Provided if Notice is Given to Judge of Children's Court.

What New York state is doing for the aid of crippled children and how to secure this assistance was told in a broadcast from Station WGY Friday night by George W. Davis, assistant attorney general of the state.

Mr. Davis said that under the law any child under sixteen who is handicapped by being totally or partially incapacitated for education or work —including the deaf or blind may be helped by the state. Such help may take the shape of surgical or medical treatment, hospital care, appliances such as braces, home teaching, transportation, education, tuition, scholarships or maintenance. Applications for such aid should be made to judge of the children's court who may issue the necessary order for any of the above, subject to the approval of the State Departments of Health or Education. The child then receives the necessary assistance and treatment and the state and the county each pay one-half the expense.

"That briefly," said Mr. Davis, "is what your state, your community and your children's court judges are doing to help these unfortunate children. Such work needs your assistance. If you know of a physically handicapped child under sixteen years, take a few minutes necessary to talk to your children's court judge about it, or if you are too busy, call him on the telephone. The judge will do the rest and such child in all proper cases will receive treatment and care, whether surgical, medical or educational, as will restore it as nearly as possible to an equality with children not afflicted.

"Think it over. If you know of such a child, see the judge or call him up. A little later you may see that child playing with other children and you will be proud of what your state, your county and you have done.

"God has been good to us. Let us each do our part to assist these afflicted children and make them well, happy and useful members of society."

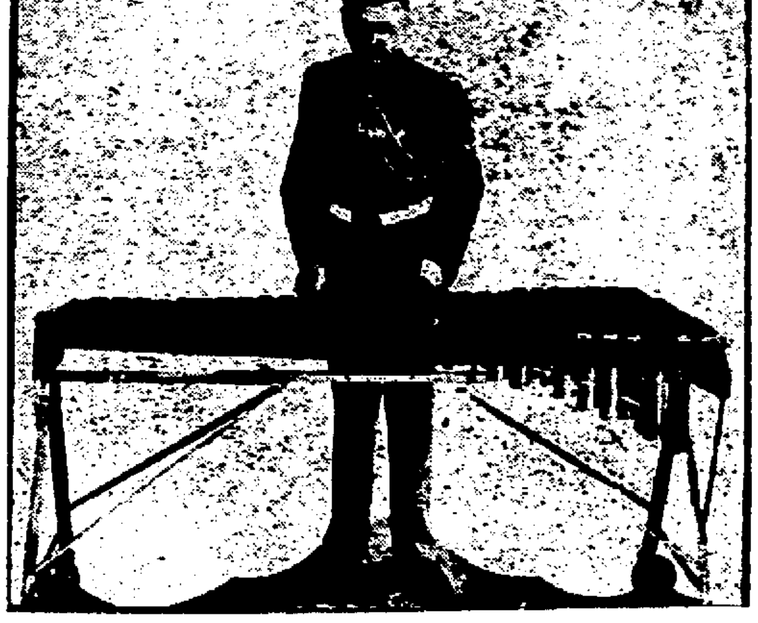
Kieffer Sure to Make Hit



WILBUR D. KIEFFER.

One soloist on the afternoon program which is sure to make a decided hit when the Marine Band appears in the Armory next Wednesday, is Wilbur D. Kieffer, a brilliant performer upon the xylophone. There is doubtless no other individual member of the band that is of more popular interest than this busy man with the drums and tympani.

The superior of Kieffer as a xylophone soloist or in handling the drums and traps does not exist today. Difficult of performance, his solo on the xylophone is well calculated to bring out his remarkable technique in handling this instrument.

Kieffer, like most of the Marine Band soloists, is a veteran of the organization, having seen over 12 years of continuous service. He is a native of Lancaster, Pennsylvania, where he started his career as the drummer in a local theatre orchestra.

Voters in the Third ward who have been accustomed to vote and register at the city hall should not forget that the polling place is located in the water works barn, adjoining the city hall.

Voting machines, which will be used this fall, are at every polling place and those who register can receive instructions on how to use them during registration days.

Unusual in Size

The tallest monument of stone is the Washington monument, 555 feet high, but the largest monolith is in Karnak, Egypt, being 106 feet high. The highest chimney in the Old world, measuring 474 feet, is in Glasgow. The largest aqueduct in use is the Croton of New York, which is 38 miles long; but the longest ever built is in Peru, 360 miles in length.

OFFICE CAT

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

Job: Something that's forever interfering with one's fad.

A movie actress is known by the husbands she doesn't keep.

Fair Canvasser—Oh, I've called to inquire whether we could give a demonstration of our wonderful vacuum cleaner.

Householder—Not now, but what we would like on a nice day like this is a demonstration of a day's run to the seaside in a new car if you have one!

Sound travels at the rate of 400 yards a second, but there are exceptions to the rule:

Scandal—1,000 yards a second.
Flattery—500 yards.
Truth—2½ yards.
An Alarm Clock—barely 1 foot.

"I hate to marry Bill, but I'll have to." "How come?" "I can't return his engagement ring because I've lost the darn thing."

First Cat: I hear you had an addition to your family, Mrs. Cat; was it a boy or a girl?

Second Cat: Oh, just six of one and a half dozen of the other.

The only thing you can hold against Helen Wills is that she originated those two-strap sunshades.

Sweet Young Thing, in drug store: "Have you any good hair tonic?"

Sweet Young Thing: "Oh, I don't want it for myself. The fur is falling off my coat."

There's a man who lives in Newburgh who is so dumb he thinks that Bunker Hill is a golf-course hazard.

Formerly, says a Kingston teacher, skirt was a common noun, now it's an abbreviation.

The reason why so many college boys wire home for money is because it is impossible to send a letter COLLECT.

It takes a clever woman to know what a man is going to say before he says it; it takes an even cleverer woman not to say it first.

The cost of a very small war would dike the Mississippi safely, but people wouldn't get "patriotic" about the prosaic business of saving life.

Gladys says the modern woman has been said to regard her husband just like a frock in her wardrobe, and it must make him feel awfully small.

Fairy Story: "But think of the expense to the taxpayers," objected the public official.

AN IDEAL CANDIDATE.

Never was a candidate presented to the voters of Ulster county who was better qualified to perform the duties of a public office than is Walter G. Geroldsek, Republican candidate for the office of county clerk. Mr. Geroldsek for twelve years has been Deputy County Clerk and during that time he has become familiar with every duty of the office. During those twelve years he has been called upon to perform practically every duty which a county clerk is called upon to perform. The office of County Clerk is an important one and one which calls for a vast amount of detail work and during his service Mr. Geroldsek has become familiar with these necessary details and his election will be an assurance of an efficient and competent administration.

In addition to performing the regular office work Mr. Geroldsek has acted as clerk of the courts and has become familiar with these important duties. During sessions of both Supreme and County court the clerk of the court is called upon to keep accurate and intelligent minutes of all of the proceedings. This Mr. Geroldsek has done to the entire satisfaction of the court, litigants and attorneys.

Competent, courteous and always willing to give assistance to those seeking information at the office, Mr. Geroldsek has made many friends throughout this and adjoining counties. By his ability and familiarity with the duties of the office he has been of great assistance to those who had business with the office. With the preparation of applications for citizenship papers he has become entirely familiar and his knowledge of this work has been of great value to those seeking admission as citizens of the United States.

The election of Walter G. Geroldsek to the office of County Clerk will mean the election of a man thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office.

FAVOR AND EQUIVALENT.

The President is reported to be "more grieved than indignant" at the action of the French government in levying higher duties on American imports than on those of some other countries. He is said to be "puzzled", never having expected such a thing, so out of harmony with the ordinary amenities, particularly in view of the historic friendship between the two republics, each of which has come to the aid of the other in time of need. On the other hand, the French, while attributing his "grief" to a curious misunderstanding, wonder where there can be found room for "indignation" in connection with a purely business matter in which bargaining plays its part. They know that American duties on French goods are higher than the French duties on American goods of which complaint is made. They have pointed out that the favored treatment given by France to certain other countries has been paid for by special concessions on French goods.

Moreover, they remind us that they have proposed to swap favors with us in the same way and that we have declined to enter into any such reciprocity arrangements. Why, then, do we persist in imagining that we have the right and can succeed in demanding special favors without giving any equivalent? Doubtless the French think that they have the more reason to be "puzzled", particularly as Washington continues to talk about our "most favored nation" treaties, which, in the case of some countries of no great commercial importance, do include tariff matters, overlooking the fact that we have no such inclusive treaty with France and merely hope to negotiate one. Neither France nor any other commercially important nation can be induced to grant special tariff favors unconditionally, that is, without equivalent favors in return.

MEXICAN EXECUTIONS.

According to the reports at this writing, the Mexican rebel army is "fleeing in the mountains" and the revolt is "believed ended." This may be an optimistic view, but assuredly enough rebel leaders have been promptly executed to put discouragement into the rest of them. These executions have seemed shocking in America, where so many people are loath to let even a hardened murderer be hanged or electrocuted, but in Mexico they appear to have been regarded as a matter of course. At any rate the Mexican party in power has never been slow to dispose of militant opponents in this way as soon as they are caught. The record of political executions in Mexico is crowded and long, reaching all the way back to the days of Cortes, and the public stomach for the bloody business does not appear ever to have been troubled with much squeamishness. One gets the impression that political offenders can be shot before breakfast without interfering with the hearty enjoyment of that meal.

Possibly some considerable part of the explanation is to be found in the statement of Cunningham Grahame that the Mexicans "are descended on the one side from the most bloodthirsty race of Indians that the Spanish conquerors came across, and on the other side from the very fiercest elements of the Spanish race itself—elements which had just emerged from eight hundred years of warfare with the Moors." Doubtless there is historical basis for this view. Although the ancient Toltecs are believed to have been mild and peaceful, the succeeding Aztecs are said to have revealed a savage ferocity that astonished even the violent Spaniards.

HEART SECRETION.

You are likely wondering what will be the next discovery in medicine.

You have learned that the secretion of the gland in the neck, the thyroid gland, acts as a sort of whip to make the processes of the body work faster.

Sometimes it has been likened to the forced draft of a furnace which forces the cells to burn more rapidly.

The secretion of the adrenal glands, situated on top of the kidneys, act in the opposite way, and seem to steady or slow up the action of the thyroid secretion.

Then the secretion from the pancreas, insulin, enables the system to utilize the sugars of the food to a greater extent.

However no one has ever thought of the heart as a ductless gland. You are aware that it is simply a muscular pump, that works by means of the impulses which go to it from the brain by means of the nerves.

However a heart has been known to beat even after the nerves from the brain had been cut, thus showing that in the heart itself, was something that had the power, for a time at least, to keep the heart beating.

As you know a few drops of the secretion from the adrenal glands, adrenalin, has been injected into a heart that has stopped beating, and the heart began again to beat, and continued to do so. And when Prof. Haberlandt tells us that he has discovered a secretion in the heart itself that has this power, the same power as that of adrenalin we are inclined to accept it as another discovery that may prove of great benefit to the human race.

There is no question but that "something" in the heart itself, something that we have always called "reserve power," has brought individuals through illnesses when all hope had been abandoned. And on the other hand there is no question but that some of the acute illnesses such as influenza, typhoid, rheumatism, tonsillitis, and others seem to "use up" this reserve power, and it is often many weeks before Nature has it stored up again. That is the reason that your doctor isn't in a hurry to let you get up and around again too soon after an illness.

Getting up too soon uses up this reserve power, instead of letting it get stored up.

We will await, with interest, more information about this heart secretion.

HARD-WORKING LOAFERS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

YOU find them in the city squares,
You find them in the village streets:
They are the workers unawares,
They are the sort that thinks it cheats
An age-old rule—but with the sweat
Of honest toil mankind must earn
His bed and board, his living get
By giving something in return.

There are so many things to do,
Good things to make, good ways to serve,
So many things to fashion true,
To run the line, to draw the curve;
But they would seek some other way
To make their bread, without the toil
Of those who give an honest day
To desk or counter, bench or soil.

How hard they work, these workless ones,
The frauds, the fakes, the parasites;
They are so wise, the simpletons,
That they forget the sleepless nights,
The bumping maybe over rails,
The weariness of idleness—
For so the loafer always fails
His toil to measure or confess.

He works his ten or twenty hours
And pities him who labors eight;
But we come home to garden flow'rs,
And children laughing at the gate.
Yet still the foolish fondly cling
To that illusion, that they shirk—
For some will work at anything,
However hard, that isn't work.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Rosina Galli Had Passed Her Career Troubles.

AT THE age of twenty-one I had already graduated from the ballet school of the Milan opera; I had been seen by Gatti-Casazza, the director general of the Metropolitan Opera house, and engaged by him. At twenty-one I was already dancing at the Metropolitan as the premiere danseuse. So you see at twenty-one there was no turning point in my life. That came when I was seven. Then I was sitting in a box with my parents during a children's dancing competition that took place in a theater in Milan and during an intermission I escaped the vigilance of my mother, got onto the stage, and gave a solo dance for the audience. My impromptu effort won me the mayor's prize and began my career.—Rosina Galli.

TODAY—Miss Galli is one of the greatest interpretative dancers in the world. She has been premiere danseuse of the Metropolitan Opera house for a number of years.

Removing the Cause of Colds

Improper elimination of waste matter puts the body in a run-down condition, permitting a cold to develop in the system. The cold may express itself in catarrh of the head, in tonsilitis, in sore throat, in bronchitis, or if not checked in time, it may become influenza or pneumonia.

So a cold means many things to many people, but its cause, no matter in what form it may express itself, is a spinal nerve congestion, causing under-activity of the eliminative organs. If the liver is weak, it throws more work on the skin, kidneys and lungs, and so it goes. Whichever eliminative organ is weakened, it overworks the others. If two or all of them are weakened, and they sometimes break down under the overwork, then pneumonia, influenza, tuberculosis, or other extreme diseases may result. The extraordinary record of recoveries in these diseases from chiropractic spinal treatments is based on the fact that the cause is reached, and Nature, when given a fair chance, has more than enough reserve strength to eliminate disease. The chiropractic spinal treatments release the normal degree of nerve force into the weakened organs, and Nature's reserve forces are given a chance.

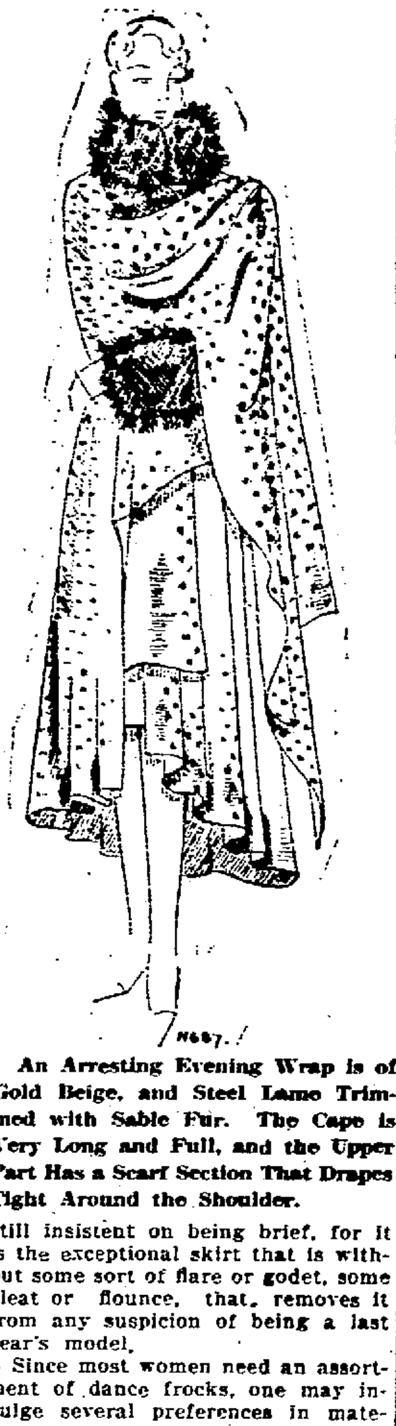
Evening Fabrics Are As Lovely as Those Worn by the Fairy Princesses of Our Dreams — The Robe de Style is Most Often of Taffeta and a Contrasting Fabric

New York.—There is a wizardry about the new evening fabrics that takes us back in memory to the days when our greatest delight was in reading of fairy princesses who always seemed to wear velvet and gleaming silver. The tissues of today are quite as beautiful as our childish fancy pictured them, although princesses in those days wore velvet trains instead of saucy knee-length skirts.

As every one must concede, there seems to be a preference just now for longer skirts for evening. Many lovely women are reverting to period frocks for dinner, feeling that the day for ultra modernism was long enough.

When a skirt is long, it must also be full. Indeed, one almost feels that it is true of skirts, which are still insistent on being brief, for it is the exceptional skirt that is without some sort of flare or godet, some pleat or flounce, that, removes it from any suspicion of being a last year's model.

Since most women need an assortment of dance frocks, one may indulge several preferences in materials and make selections from the all but transparent velvets, which are figured or plain, crisp taffetas, crepe satin, with its contradictory surfaces, chiffons, in novel designs, or any of the alluring metal cloths, some of which are as drapeable as the softest crepes. Such materials as involve metal threads are inclined to modernistic effects, so taffeta really remains the favorite for the robe de style—taffeta often coupled with lace or with velvet, sometimes with both.



An Arresting Evening Wrap is of Gold Beige, and Steel Lamo Trimmed with Sable Fur. The Cape is Very Long and Full, and the Upper Part Has a Scarf Section That Drapes Tight Around the Shoulder.

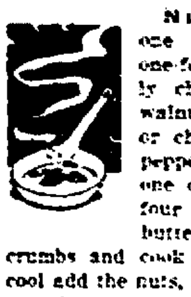
The KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1927, Western Newspaper Union.)

You were made for enjoyment, and the world is filled with things you will enjoy, unless you are too proud to be pleased by them.—Ruskin.

SEASONABLE DISHES

Those who cannot eat meat or are on a restricted diet will enjoy:



Nut Cutlets.—Take one cupful of crumbs, one-fourth cupful of finely chopped almonds or walnuts, a little onion or chives with salt and pepper to taste. Scald one cupful of milk with four tablespoonfuls of butter, add the bread crumbs and cook until thick. When cool add the nuts, a little minced parsley, shape into cutlets, fry in deep fat after rolling in egg and crumbs. Serve with tomato sauce.

Stuffed Onions.—Take a cupful or less of finely ground cooked ham, add to twice as much bread crumbs, season with salt and pepper and moisten with cream. Cook large onions until partly cooked, scoop out the centers and fill with the above mixture. Place in a deep baking dish and baste with butter and water. A few minutes before serving dot the top of each with freshly buttered crumbs and brown well before serving. They may be browned quickly by putting them under the gas flame for a few minutes.

Beefsteak a la Henritte.—Wipe a porterhouse steak, cut one and one-half inches in thickness. Broil eight minutes, turning frequently. Pour one-half of the following sauce on the platter, lay in it the steak, cover with the remaining sauce, garnish with parsley and grated horseradish.

Sauce Henritte.—Wash one-half cupful of butter and divide into three parts. Put one piece into a saucepan with the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten and mixed with one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of water. Set the saucepan into a larger one of hot water, place over the fire and stir constantly until the butter is melted. Add a second piece of butter, and when well melted, the third; then add two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree, one of worcestershire sauce and one-half of minced parsley, with salt and cayenne to season. The sauce to be properly made should be smooth and of the consistency of boiled custard. The tomato puree is prepared by cooking down a cupful of tomato until thick, then put through a sieve.

EIGHTH ANNIVERSARY SALE

Eight years ago the present owner of "The Wonderly Co." took over this good old reliable Dry Goods store—which was formerly the G. A. Hart & Co. store—known for the past 50 years in the surrounding county as Kingston's Best Dry Goods Store. Following in the footsteps of our predecessor who always believed that "quality" came first, we have endeavored these eight years to maintain this prestige, of selling only merchandise of merit, striving to be of greater worth to our customers, always serving—always giving value, and—may we say—succeeding because it is animated by the principles of the founders that have inspired its growth and good name. So we have reason to celebrate and it is fitting that we "give" rather than "take" on this great occasion and show to you our sincere appreciation for your long years of continuus patronage.

1920—To the present Rev. E. O. Clarke.

In 1877 the trustees took out a mortgage of $2,400 on the church property. Mr. Jacob Busch held this mortgage. This mortgage was subsequently burned by the late Rev. Benjamin Judd through the aid of a committee. who were Herbert Carl. John B. Alliger. Senator Henry Connelly. H. C. Hiltebrandt and C. A. Dolson. The Rev. Dr. Seeley also rendered invaluable aid.

Under the pastorate of the Rev. Mr. W. H. Newby the present parsonage at 76 Liberty street a double house jointly owned by Mr. Theron B. Mowers and the congregation of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church was purchased. The mortgage for the property was held by the Honorable Judge James A. Betts. On October 18, 1925. the mortgage was burned by the Rev. Mr. E. O. Clarke.

The fostering of the construction of a new structure to replace the old one. which was inadequate to the membership was launched about 1925, at the same time as the mortgage on the parsonage was burned. The congregation voted unanimously for the same and the quarterly conference sustained this unanimous vote. Two thousand dollars was immediately deposited in the Ulster County National Bank toward a new structure. The need of a new structure was greatly felt at this time by the congregation as the old structure was in imminent danger of collapsing. On December 29. 1926. at about 9:30 a. m. the church was badly damaged by fire which made the new building doubly imperative. A committee of white citizens was organized through the efforts of the pastor, the Rev. E. O. Clarke, comprised of the late Herbert Carl, Admiral J. J. Higginson. Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck. Judge A. T. Clearwater. Judge Joseph M. Fowler. Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley, Walter P. Crane, William B. Martin. Louis S. Coe. Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Charles de la Vergne. A. D. Rose . and Charles Ramsey. now chairman since Mr. Carl's sudden demise.

The first meeting was called at the Governor Clinton Hotel on Albany avenue and was largely attended. The colored committee present were the Rev. Mr. E. O. Clarke. John W. Sampson. Theron B. Mowers. Frederick Dewitt. William Van Dyke. Sr.. Charles B. Walker. Howard B. La Tour, Henry S. Van Derzee and William S. Schoonmaker.

At this meeting there was $2.500 subscribed by the white committee and it was decided to tear down the old structure and erect a new one.

On May 15, 1927. the members gathered at the church on Franklin street to break ground for this new structure. The honor of first breaking ground was conferred upon the brother. Dennis Johnson. one of the oldest members of our flock, and he was followed by all present.

Those who helped dig the foundation for the new church were: The Rev. Mr. H. Johnson. Fred DeWitt, John Stanford, Sr., John Stanford. Jr., Albert Snyder. William Jackson. John Liscomb. William Van Dyke. Sr., William Van Dyke. Jr., Clarence Van Derzee. Sr., Rev. Mr. E. O. Clarke. Theron B. Mowers. Louis Dabney. Daniel Fitzgerald. Augustus Fitzgerald. 2nd. Theron Fitzgerald. Thomas Van Derzee. Sr., Howard B. La Tour, Oscar Crispell, Raymond Crispell. Edward McKinnon. Sr.. George Hannibal. William Hannibal. John Brodhead. Levi Brodhead. Kenneth La Tour. James Crowell, Charles Marbles. Harry Robinson. Grant Fitzgerald. Benjamin Sumpter. Richard Wynkoop. Sr., George Overt. Sr.. George Overt. Jr.. John Smith. George C. Fitzgerald. Walter D. Burke. Daniel Van Dyke and Otis Lee.

The old church was formerly located on the corner of Broadway and Franklin street. (then called Union avenue and the Bowery, respectively) on the site of the present oil station: and in the year 1863 the church was moved to its present location.

This congregation had been functioning for two years before it was legally organized and the cornerstone which is to be laid Sunday. October 16. 1927, at 2:15 p. m. marks another milestone in the history of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church in Kingston. N. Y.

Many Children Attended Clinic

Last of Free Diphtheria Clinics Held at Armory on Friday—Next Clinic at Central Fire Station—Clinic Worker Hit By Automobile.

The last of the series of four free diphtheria clinics held at the state armory under the auspices of the board of health was staged Friday afternoon and was attended by 774 children and their parents. The next clinic to finish up the three doses of those who did not receive the last treatment will be held at the Central Fire Station.

Over 2,000 Treated.

As a result of the four clinics held at the armory over 2,000 children were immunized against diphtheria. and the few other children who have only received two injections of the serum may receive the third at the clinic that Dr. Connelly, health officer, will hold at the Central Fire Station next Friday.

One Worker Injured.

Mrs. Rose J. Kelly of No. 150 O'Neil street, who has been one of the volunteer workers at the clinics, was injured Friday afternoon when she was knocked down by an automobile driven by Miss Mary G. Tucker of Port Ewen.

According to the report of the accident filed with the police department by Miss Tucker, she was driving north on Broadway and a trolley car was parked at the downtown entrance to the American Cigar Company switch. Miss Tucker said that Mrs. Kelly walked out from in front of the parked trolley car as she was passing and fell against the side of her Buick sedan.

Mrs. Kelly was injured about the face and legs and was attended by Dr. Jacobson.

Out of Town Visitors.

The clinic was attended Friday by two women from Peekskill where they are contemplating holding similar clinics. The health officer from Middletown was also present at the clinic.

Von Gonsic Donated Bus.

John Von Gonsic of Port Ewen donated the use of a Pierce Arrow palace car bus to convey children to and from the clinic Friday. The bus is used on the New York-Kingston bus route. It was driven Friday by Chauffeur Schipp.

Boy Scouts Assisted.

A large delegation of Boy Scouts have been efficient workers at all four clinics. The Scouts were Anson Boice, Philip Ruth, William Hendricks, John Heiser, Raymond Davis. Hugo Schroeder, Spencer Myers, Harry Miller, Howard Jones. Dwight Parker, Robert Whittaker. James Mann, Kenneth Dunbar. Charles Smith. Fred Tierney, Adelbert Kinkade. Hasbrouck Dougherty. Richard Palen, Ralph Palen, Vernon Hall. Stanton Warren, Frank Byer, Arthur Bonse, Norwood Ostrander. Thomas Russell, Howard Winchell. William Lund. Albert Roosa and Howard Alliger.

Junior League Active.

Members of the Junior League took an active part in all four clinics, handling the transportation of the children to and from the clinics. The nurse employed by the League also assisted the physicians in administering the toxin-antitoxin.

Many public spirited citizens donated the use of their cars to convey the children to and from the clinics.

Dr. Connelly, who had arranged the holding of the clinics. said that he greatly appreciated the work of the staff of physicians and nurses who had donated their services, and to the many volunteer workers who had worked so efficiently to make the clinics the big success they proved to be.

Sets a Record.

The clinics have set an attendance record in Kingston as previous to the ones just held the largest attendance in other years had been slightly in excess of four hundred children.

Further Delay For Mrs. Grayson

Old Orchard, Me., Oct. 15 (AP).—A sudden overnight change in transatlantic weather forced a fresh postponement this morning of the scheduled hop off of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her two companions in their giant amphibian "Dawn" for Copenhagen. They awoke to find that the nightly poll of steamships revealed strong adverse winds extending from 400 miles off this coast clear across to Europe.

The earliest favorable moment at which the expedition may now hope to leave here will not come until low tide tomorrow morning.

the captain's cabin, now climbing to the bridge for group photographs.

Then amid cheery farewells and expressions of profound gratitude to Captain Goos, his officers and crew, Miss Elder and Haldeman descended into a waiting launch, the send off seemed one of sparkling animation.

The American fliers will be the guests of Traffic Director Mackay of the Western Union Cable Company until Monday when they intend taking the Portuguese mail boat Lima to Lisbon en route to Paris.

Although the American fliers refused to grant any interviews, the following summary of their trip was obtained through Mr. Mackay:

"We left the United States under the most favorable conditions and were forced to land by the Dutch steamer Barendrecht on account of loss of oil pressure. While attempting to take the plane aboard the steamship, two explosions occurred and the ropes had to be cut as quickly as possible in order to escape the flames. The plane sank immediately."

Ossining Tigers Will Be Here Sunday at Noon

Will Leave For Kingston at 9 o'clock Arriving Here at Noon—Yellow Jackets May Meet Their Strongest Opponents In This Contest.

Manager Richard J. Reilly and his Ossining Tigers will have dinner here Sunday before taking on the Yellow Jackets at the Fair Grounds at 3 p. m. They will leave the down river community at 9 a. m. in order to be here in plenty of time for the contest, according to the now mysterious manager of the Yellow Jackets, who 'phoned the Ossining boss Friday night.

The Ossining manager informed the local overseer that the lower-Hudson team is in rare form and although the Yellow Jackets have a very favorable reputation feels that the Tigers may be able to take them into camp. The Ossining team has overcome many strong opponents during their gridiron career and this year expect to continue the good work. They have a weighty line, plenty of art in their performance and much experience to assist them to victory over the locals.

The Yellow Jackets, a real good football team, have improved wonderfully since their first game this season which they snatched from the Staten Island Professionals, a hard fighting team of veterans from colleges and institutions where the game is made a specialty. Their stamina and eagerness to win augmented by hard practice sessions will play no small part in taking a fall out of the Tigers Sunday in what is expected to be one of the most hotly contested football games ever staged on the Fair Grounds gridiron.

A large crowd of fans is expected to be on hand for the game and the patrons of the Yellow Jackets are kindly asked by the management to remember the warning issued concerning the spectators swarming on the field—It means a loss for the Yellow Jackets as the locals will be penalized if fans persist in climbing over the ropes.

COLGATE IS SLIGHT FAVORITE OVER COLUMBIA

New York, Oct. 15 (AP).—Colgate was regarded as a slight favorite over Columbia today as the teams made ready for their third meeting since the 1922 season. The loss of Fred Reiger, Columbia fullback, who is out with an injury, has clouded the Lions' chances somewhat. This defection throws the burden of the kicking to Kaplan and Kampf, neither of whom has ever shouldered it.

Columbia has played three games, winning all of them and keeping its goal line uncrossed: Colgate, with one of the east's strong teams last season, suffered defeat at the hands of Virginia Poly last week.

Both teams went through final drills yesterday. Colgate went through its paces at Travers Island, devoting the entire session to signals and punting and passing. Two positions on the Colgate team were rather uncertain, Shaughnessy and Galloway in the backfield being below par because of injuries last week. They were expected to go in early but it was doubtful if they would be able to play through.

KNUTE ROCKNE'S MEN SUBSTANTIAL FAVORITES

New York, Oct. 15 (AP).—Although dividing its interest among several games of early season moment, the east nevertheless had a weather eye trained on Baltimore today, watching Notre Dame and the Navy inaugurate a brand new athletic relationship on the football field. Knute Rockne's eleven has been installed as a substantial favorite in spite of the promise the Middies have shown in their opening encounters.

Aside from the prospect of a hammer and tongs battle, the Baltimore attraction also promised to give the new rules a thorough test with the vaunted Rockne shift as prominent as ever working smoothly at the execution of a number of veterans. Bill Ingram had to fill several gaps left by graduations and although the latent power is undenied it remains to be seen how it will stand up under fire.

Made Debut by Fanning Ruth

A twenty-four-year-old rookie had made the familiar journey from the bullpen to the pitching hill. He faced the supreme test in his major league debut—a second division team opposed to the Yankees, three on in the eighth inning, none out and Babe Ruth the batter. That was in the summer of 1922.

Charlie Root.

The customary warm up was held. Hank Severeid caught the five twisters from the kid, announced to Umpire George Hildebrand he was ready for play to be resumed, the Babe tightened the grip on his home-run swing and another major league star was made.

One sharp curve floated through the center. The Babe swung and missed. Another curve. Another swing and it was strike two. Fifteen thousand enthusiastic fans then shrieked until the stands at Sportsman's park in St. Louis rocked, when the third curve became the third strike with the Home Run King completely fooled.

There you have the major league debut of Charley Root, now the star of the Chicago Cubs, who was called a pitching phenom for the future by such expert judges as Lee Fohl, then manager of the Browns; Lefty Leifield, present coach of the Detroit Tigers; Urban Shocker, Dixie Davis, Johnny Tobin and others who sat on the Browns' bench and saw the gritty performance by the kid from Ohio, who did not stir an eyelash, but went out and fanned Babe Ruth with three pitches and three on.

Difficult Task to Name the Greatest Backfield

"It is next to impossible to name the greatest backfield of all time," says Dr. Clarence Spears, of Minnesota. "Personally I would not care to undertake the job.

"I think a better way would be to name the shiftiest backfield, the most versatile, the most powerful, the fastest, and so on.

"If you want a backfield for speed, agility and quickness, I don't think you can pick a better all-time combination than 'Gus' Dorais of Notre Dame at quarter, Conn of California and Pollard of Brown at the halves, and McLaren of Pittsburgh, at fullback. The game never saw four backs who combined speed, agility and quickness to a finer degree than these four, at least they never had four equals in my opinion.

"Should you care to select a backfield that combines speed, power and drive, what better combination can you get than Eddie Mahan of Harvard, Willie Heston of Michigan, George Gipp of Notre Dame, and Jim Thorpe of Carlisle? Here is a backfield that many will consider the best set of backs of all time."

Succeeds Yost

Underwood & Underwood

Fielding Yost, one of the world's greatest football coaches, threw a bombshell into the first meeting of the football candidates for this season at Michigan university, when he announced, "I do not find it possible to coach football this year." Yost's right-hand man, Tad Wieman, shown in the photograph, will succeed Yost.

Ty Cobb Begins His 23rd Season in Big Leagues

Ty Cobb has started his twenty-third year in big league baseball.

On August 30, 1905, he joined the Detroit Tigers, where he remained as player and later manager for 21 years.

In entering upon his twenty-third year Cobb is believed to have added another record to his long and brilliant career on the diamond. Pop Anson and Cy Young, other players with long records, each played for 21 years.

Cobb made his 2,200th run on April 26 last. He made his 4,000th hit on July 18 and went to bat for the 11,000th time in a recent game.

"I have learned a lot about the old game in this time," said Cobb. "And I'm not going to give up trying until I quit the game for good."

Cobb spent all of his years in the majors with the Detroit club, until he was removed from its management before the present season opened. He was then signed by Connie Mack for the Athletics.

Took Name From Paint

The White House gets its name from the fact that after the first executive mansion, which was of buff freestone, was burned by the British in 1814, the walls were covered with white paint to hide the traces of fire, according to Liberty.

PICKS ALL-STAR 1927 BALL TEAM

Connie Mack Names Players He Thinks Best.

"This is some job you picked out for me," laughed Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, as the subject of the all-star 1927 American league team was launched.

"It makes you stop and think. For the outfield I want Goslin, Simmons and Ruth. So we'll put Goslin in left field and swing the Babe back to his old job in right. Nobody but Simmons can be considered for center field.

"Everybody would pick Gehrig for first base. I would put Lazzeri on second. When it comes to third, Sammy Hale wins that job. Cleveland is out of it. Kamm is only a fair ball player for Chicago. Warner, of Detroit, was good. But I think Hale earns the place.

"The youngsters win at shortstop. Joe Sewell had a bad year, so he can't be considered. It is between Reeves and Boley. I will have to give it to Reeves.

"Cochrane is the class of the catchers in our league. There is nobody else close to him, rating everything. The four pitchers that I would pick start with Lyons.

"He is a great pitcher. Hoyt, of the Yankees, certainly belongs there. So does Moore. A wonderful pitcher that fellow, coming into the big leagues at his age and going the way he has. Why the day that Grove shut out the Yankees, Moore pitched a grand game.

"I put Grove on the team, too. He is the best southpaw in the league and has improved wonderfully. He has mastered control now and he always had plenty of stuff. What a whale of a pitcher he would be if his disposition were different.

"Yes, I said disposition. You know that Grove has days. Whenever you see him come out laughing, joshing, cutting up, that's the day to use him. He is a great pitcher then. But when he has one of his bad days, then things happen. He doesn't pitch the way he should.

"He'll get over that. He gets upset too easily now. He isn't able to stand an error or two. If the umpire misses a few on him, then he takes it too seriously. It is something that experience will smooth over. Then he should be one whale of a pitcher, the best left-hander since Waddell."

Expect Half a Million Fans at 1927 Contests

The University of Southern California 1927 football team's earning power is estimated at $325,000 by Arnold Eddy, ticket manager and assistant general manager of the Associated Students. This compares with a total of $344,000 for the 1926 season.

Of this amount Eddy estimates the Trojans will realize a net profit of $225,000. He believes that more than a half million people will see the Thundering Herd in action this fall.

His optimism is accredited to the fact that Southern California plays five important contests this year instead of the customary two or three. They play Notre Dame at Chicago on November 26, and many believe this game will draw a record football attendance.

Wood Chopping Replaces Golf on Chicago Links

Woodchopping has been substituted for golf by a group of Chicago business men and educators. With axes over their shoulders, they sally forth each week-end to match their skill against each other.

They count strokes, as they slash through logs, just as the strokes are counted in golf. They say an afternoon of chopping is far superior as a recreation to playing 18 holes of golf.

To win a game of woodchopping, one must cut through a certain type and size of log with fewer strokes than his opponent.

Pan-Ams to Play Sunday

The Pan-Am baseball club will play their last game of the season Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Saugerties road diamond against the Albany All-Stars. It is expected that a large gathering of fans will be on hand to watch the oil-men in their final struggle against a team composed of some of the capital city's best performers.

Bill McNally's men will have to cope with the following lineup: Dave Clark, former Springfield College star, on first base; Nelse Cloket, former D. and H. performer, on second sack; John Laulor, R. P. I. player, short; Bill Gillespie of Clinton, third base; Bill Heck, Pratt Institute, catcher; Paul Blum, Albany Eastern League, hurler; Jack Clark, Syracuse University, right field; Tommy Welsh, Michigan University, left field; "Dutch" Haas, of the Tri-State League, center field.

The Pan-Ams will be represented on the diamond by Walt Black, 1b; McDaniels, 2b; Lay, ss; Hart, 3b; Joyce, rf; Tierney, cf; McGuire, lf; Chester, c; Celuch or Carpenter, pitchers.

STAMFORD CONFRONTS BASEBALL PROBLEM

Under the caption, "What Do You Think of This?—Problem Should Be Given Serious Thought," the Stamford Mirror-Record of October 12 prints the following:

Word has been received here from the management of the Kingston Colonial baseball team, which team represented Stamford during the past season, regarding the $750 that was to have been paid for their services during said season. They state there are several small bills outstanding and that quite a sum is due the players and would like to know what Stamford is going to do about it. They feel that their part of the agreement has been kept to the letter, even at a great loss on their part outside of the $750, and they further feel that something should be done about it.

The season is long past, but that does not lessen our obligation a bit. It is no credit to our community to have it said that we failed to keep our promise.

Only a small part of the amount has been paid and most of that by an individual. If all would help a little it would mean a lot in the end. Let's do it.

GAME SUNDAY AT HASBROUCK PARK

Although the weather is rather chilly for baseball it is expected that the followers of the Blue Sox and the U. & D. teams will be furnished with plenty of thrills and excitement to warm them up if they visit Hasbrouck Park Sunday afternoon when the teams meet to close the season.

The Blue Sox have stacked up for the meeting with the U. & D. and will have five West Shore players in their lineup. Tommy Lewis and "Lefty" Williams will be available for mound duty while Johnny Schultz will do the receiving. The rest of the team will lineup as follows: Bush, 1b; Cassidy, 2b; "Boots" Leskie, ss; Wojaic, 3b; Peden, rf; Williams or Lewis, lf; Missove, cf; Keating, Steinhilber and Joe Schultz utility men.

The U. & D. will have their regular lineup with either Phil Peters or Walt Black for the boxman's task. Hank Smedes will do the catching.

JACK DELANEY WINS OVER JACK RENAULT

New York, Oct. 15 (AP).—Jack Delaney, former light heavy weight king, has survived the first round of Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination process, the aim of which is to pick a logical opponent for Gene Tunney in 1928.

The Bridgeport boxer gave away almost 20 pounds last night and outpointed Jack Renault in ten rounds at Madison Square Garden. Renault suffered a broken nose in the fourth round when he charged in and was met by one of Delaney's quick uppercuts. He was an easy target for Delaney's left hook and jab and he bled profusely until the eighth round.

Families and Happiness

I have learned that the happiest people in the world are those who are happily mated and have large families. Although they do not say, as a rule, that they are happy, I often see the envy in other people's eyes. They work hard, apparently not knowing how disagreeable are the tasks thrust on them, and without caring how much their labors made them tired. When the evening comes, they carry home the profits of their toil and lay them on the laps of the women who love them. Perhaps, somewhere in the next room, a baby is crying. I might find it disturbing. They think it the most beautiful music in the world.—Hannen Swaffer in London Express.

Interrupted at Play, Child Slays Snake

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Carl Ross is only two years old but, according to his father, Clarence Ross, the child is an accomplished hunter, and already has to his credit one garter snake, measuring 14 inches.

Carl and his four-year-old brother, James, were playing in the yard of the Ross home here when a snake glided into sight. James ran for help. Carl picked up a hammer and started after the enemy. When aid arrived, he had vanquished the snake and was amusing himself by grinding its head into the ground.

Nome, Alaska.—A missionary in the interior, Rev. Andrew Knox, has written to friends that dogs have eaten part of his church. MOTOR CAMPING MADE PLEASURE

New York Grounds Are Well Policed and Rules Rigidly Enforced.

Motor camping would be an unmitigated pleasure were all the camp sites as clean and free from rubbish as those in the New York state forest preserves, according to Earle B. Knox, writing in the Field and Stream Magazine.

The chief reason for the superiority of the New York camp grounds over those in many other parts of the country, Mr. Knox believes, lies in the fact that they are well policed and that rules are rigidly enforced.

Rules Are Outlined.

Some of these rules which enable the state to render the public the greatest possible service with these camps, lean-tos and open fireplaces, and at the same time keep them in harmony with their wild surroundings, are as follows:

1. No fires except for cooking, warmth or smudge purposes are permitted. No fire shall be lighted until all inflammable material is removed to prevent its spread.

2. Lighted matches, cigars, cigarettes or burning tobacco must not be deposited or left where they may cause fires.

3. No official sign posted, or statement maintained under permit, shall be defaced.

4. Peeling of bark or injuring trees is prohibited.

5. Dead or down wood may be used for fuel by temporary campers.

Sanitation Maintained.

6. Camps and adjacent grounds must be maintained in a clean and sanitary condition. Garbage and refuse must either be buried, removed, or burned. Waste materials must not be thrown into the waters, or waters polluted.

7. No tents (except canvas without platform) or wooden structures shall be erected or maintained in the forest preserve, except under written permission from the conservation commission. Tar paper shall not be used, except for roofs of open camps erected under a permit.

8. No one may claim particular site from year to year or the exclusive use of the same.

9. The use of the forest preserves or the improvements thereon for private revenues or commercial purposes is prohibited.

10. Any occupied tent or structure may be removed by the commission.

11. All campers will be held responsible for compliance with these rules, and any person responsible for injury of state property will be held liable for damages and penalty.

Perfect Drivers Great Menace in Large Cities

The mediocre automobile driver must save the traffic situation in our large cities today, says a traffic expert.

The inferior and the perfect drivers are causing all the difficulties and are responsible for accidents and traffic tieups.

It is not difficult to understand how the inferior driver causes accidents to his own and other machines, but the "perfect" driver appears too perfect to be blamed.

The "perfect" driver never gets into an accident himself. He never violates a traffic rule. He never gives vociferous traffic cops a chance to enjoy themselves at his expense.

The "perfect" driver careens down the street just to and not exceeding the maximum traffic speed limit. Pedestrians see him a block away, and even if they have the right of way they hesitate to cross the street as the "perfect" driver speeds toward the crossing.

However, he makes a "perfect" stop just to and not beyond the danger line, breaking no traffic laws but frightening pedestrians so that they fear to cross the street while they have a chance.

The "perfect" driver is always right. He is so absolutely and recklessly right that other drivers and pedestrians fear him. He is the most disrupting element in the traffic situation.

Auto Lock Is Invented for Forgetful Drivers

Locks to safeguard automobile drivers against their own carelessness are being tested in the underwriters' laboratories at Chicago.

The forgetfulness of drivers of insured cars who park their cars unlocked and walk away with the feeling that the insurance company "can do the worrying" has induced the National Automobile Underwriters' conference to withdraw recognition of locking devices in the writing of insurance. To meet the situation a new lock is being developed.

The new lock is so designed that when the driver switches off the ignition to stop the engine he automatically locks the car. Few drivers, insurance companies find, are in the habit of forgetting that an engine needs gasoline to keep running. The breaking of the ignition circuit is almost a subconscious operation with the average driver.

The laboratories have recognized a number of locks so made that the mechanism which breaks the circuit also locks the car, but this lock is the first that performs both operations at the same time.

Dependable Road Burner Rises to High Position

An automobile dealer with a lot of ingenuity decided it wouldn't be a bad idea to advertise his wares, so he hoisted an old flivver 125 feet higher than the street level as an advertising attraction. It works!

American Diplomat Will Not Junk Old Machines

Larz Anderson, American diplomat of Brookline, Mass., believes that automobiles have personalities just like horses and refuses to junk any car he ever owned. Buying cars since the year one of automobile history, Anderson has probably the greatest assortment of types, special bodies, motors and what-not to be found in the world on his estate, "Weld." Around the whitewashed walls of the garage hang the portraits of this notable motor family. Each has its photograph taken in the days of its prime.

Bullet Brings Death While Girl Taunts

Mount Holly, N. C.—While Miss Dolly Rhodes sat beside him in an automobile and joked at his threats to kill himself, Randolph Gardner, twenty-four, member of a prominent Gaston county family, shot himself through the head, dying a few minutes later. The shooting occurred in front of the Rhodes residence.

Miss Rhodes, prostrated by the occurrence, could assign no reason. She said there had been no argument and that when Gardner put the pistol to his head and told her he was going to shoot she laughed at him, thinking he was joking, but that suddenly he pulled the trigger.

"TAME" WOLF KILLED AFTER LIVELY MIXUP

Animal's Brief Freedom Full of Excitement.

Philadelphia.—A wolf, which broke from its cage on a near-by farm, appeared on the lawn of the residence of C. G. Cholmeley-Jones, West Chester pike and Eagle road, Manoa, and started for Mrs. Cholmeley-Jones.

She promptly hurried over to the other side of the lawn, picked up her child, Gloria, three years old, and ran into the house. She then sent for the gardener, John Williams, negro, and when he appeared on the lawn, armed with a club, he found the wolf about to leap on Queenie, the valuable police dog of Mr. Cholmeley-Jones, chained at the side of the house.

As Williams started for the wolf, the animal stepped backward and bared its teeth, and when it seemed ready to leap, the gardener brought his club down on the animal's head, stunning it. He then ran into the garage and obtained an ax, with which he killed the animal. Harry Campbell, its owner, later said the wolf, which was nearly four feet long and weighing about 65 pounds, was a tame wolf and would not have injured anyone. He explained that it had broken loose from its cage on his farm.

Boy Scout Knew How to Treat Snake Bite

Greenwood Lake, N. J.—William Haust, sixteen years old, a Paterson boy scout, spending the summer with other scouts at Camp Alliaha, tramped four miles through rattler and copperhead country to a marsh where he set about the peaceful pursuit of berry picking. Just when he was leaning over for a particularly ripe berry there sounded the whirr of a rattler. He didn't have time to draw out of the way and the snake bit him on the left forearm.

Haust applied a hasty tourniquet above the bite. He had a bad tooth, so to suck snake poison was equivalent to being bitten. He took a small razor blade from his pocket and slashed about the bite and squeezed as much blood out as he could. Then he walked four miles through rattler country back to the camp.

He was pretty sick that night. The doctor said that he had done all that could be done for the bite, and so he left him alone. Next day William was well again and up and around.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 15 (AP).—Speculative interests in today's stock market were confined largely to a select assortment of specialties which were marked up 2 to 7 points to new high records. Irregularity characterized the general list, although most standard industrials held fairly firm around last night's closing levels.

Midland Steel Products preferred was the individual feature, selling up 7 points to a new high at 177 on buying influenced by the reported discovery of a new alloy. J. A. Shattuck extended its early gain to six points. National Distillers preferred jumped 5 and the common 3½. Placing of the National Biscuit common on a dividend of 6 per cent annual basis brought fresh buying into the baking shares. Oils were again sluggish on unfavorable trade reports.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 900,000 shares.

THEIR ARDENT ADMIRER

(©, by D. J. Walsh.)

THE MISSES RUSSELL lived in a lovely old house surrounded by an iron fence with scrolled gateways. The house and the ladies had come into being at that period when exclusion was the thing. Very proper, very sedate, but, secretly, very romantic were the Misses Russell. They would have died before they let any one know that the wonderful electric victrola played anything but sacred music and grand opera. Alone with the aid of the softest needle they reveled in jazz and that order of music which may be collectively designated under one title—"Oh, come, my sheik, to my waiting arms!" It was the same with their literature. The bookcases were filled with classics, the library table groaned beneath weighty reviews, but behind a cushion was kept the naughty novel that made Emilie and Minette forget that they were waxing old and must behave accordingly.

In their youth they had been considered too proud for the young men who might have taken a fancy to them, for their parents had been of the high-nosed order. And when the time came when they might have chosen for themselves nobody wanted them. So they had arrived at middle life unmarried, but teeming with a desire for the one thing that had been withheld from them—romance.

"My dear," Emilie said to Minnette one morning just after Bessie, their ugly but efficient maid, had placed their breakfast before them, "I notice that our new neighbors have arrived next door. I can see from where I sit that the shades are up and people moving about. There! They are just coming into the dining room for breakfast."

Minnette turned to look and saw through the large double windows of the nearby house two men sitting opposite each other at the table and being awaited upon by a third man who was evidently a servant.

"Oh, my dear!" Minnette breathed. "Just look at that young man! He is perfectly handsome."

Discreetly screened by their lace windows the two women gazed at their next-door neighbors. The young man was handsome in a stunning black-and-white way. He seemed full of vigor, too, for he talked a great deal with many gestures. Smilingly his companion listened. This other man might have been the father of the first, for he was plain and white-haired and looked uninteresting. The servant, too, was elderly and plain. But the Misses Russell were only attracted by the delightful younger man.

"We must make their acquaintance—invite them over to dinner," Minnette said.

"Poor things, without a woman in the house! I think I will have Bessie take them a tin of her incomparable biscuit for their lunch," murmured Emilie.

Bessie was reluctant to present the biscuit but at last she was persuaded to do so by Emilie's bestowing upon her the gift of an old gown she had found that morning in the bureau drawer—landsdowne, eighteen feet around, and of a gorgeous crimson color. It was a relic of younger days, and Emilie thought that it might be dyed into suitability for her handmaiden, but Bessie loved red.

She returned with a courteous message of thanks from the older men. So far, good.

For a long time the Misses Russell had been wondering who would rent the vacant house next door, which was to be let furnished. Mrs. Tucker, who owned it, had lost her husband and gone to live with a married daughter. The house was very cozy and the Misses Russell had been certain that only nice people could afford to live there, but people with children or dogs—or depredating cats! The fact that the household was of the gentlemanly, unoffensive kind predisposed them in favor of their new neighbor.

That afternoon as Miss Emilie was weeding her garden she heard a slight cough and saw the handsome new neighbor smiling at her over the fence. He had a gift of red roses for her and when, rather fluttered, she entered into conversation with him he immediately took her into his confidence. His name was Harold Frederick Delaney, and he was writing a book entitled "Metaphysical Aspects of the Universe." He was interested in the Einstein theory of relativity, and thought that the extensive use of explosives in the last war had made our planet change poles. So deep was he and with-all so charming that Emilie lost her head as well as her heart immediately.

The next morning Minnette had a similar experience, only she received white roses instead of red. The conversation was along the same lines and she literally fell for Harold Frederick head over heels.

An invitation to dinner followed and the Misses Russell had the time of their life feeding their darling. Mr. Bowker, whom Harold called Uncle Hop, they didn't like at all. But Harold filled their eyes.

The weather was beautiful and never had the Misses Russell spent so much time in their garden. No sooner did they appear than Harold appeared also. He sat with them on the bench and talked about his book and love. He had wonderful ideas about love, and sometimes he illustrated his theories by gently pressing the hand of either lady.

And now strange feelings began to possess both women. Minnette thought that if it was not for Emilie she might be so happy with Harold, and Emilie believed that Minnette stood in her way. Each had lost all sense of perspective. Each saw in Harold only the ideal of her dreams, the culmination of every hope and longing. Each loved him, and each was jealous of the other.

This jealousy grew and grew until it began to interfere with their lives. Minnette urged Emilie to go visiting. Emilie urged Minnette to take a vacation at a popular resort. Minnette sneered at Emilie's nose and Emilie sneered at Minnette's eyebrows. They ceased to enjoy their food, their music, their friends and their home. As for Bessie her life was made miserable between them.

The air was scented with secrets. Emilie had found a tempting poem nestling among the roses Harold gave her. Minnette had heard him sigh as he gazed into her eyes.

Ultimately so much excitement proved too much for Minnette and one morning she could not rise for a sick headache. She suffered all the more because she knew that Emilie was enjoying Harold alone in the garden.

At last she crept down pale and wretched to meet her triumphant rival. No, Harold had not inquired for her. "He cares only for me," Emilie might have added.

This was too much for Minnette and she returned to bed. It was three days before she could arise. Meanwhile, Emilie tripped on the foolish high heels she had recently adopted and so jarred herself in falling that she could not leave her room for the same length of time. As for Bessie she would neither receive Harold nor carry messages for him.

Pale and sorry, the sisters were sitting together in their living room on the first evening they were able to be downstairs when Mr. Bowker entered.

"I have come to bid you farewell," he said in a dignified manner. "We are leaving on the ten o'clock train. The time has come when I can no longer manage my charge, and his guardians have ordered him placed in a hospital for an operation."

"Your charge?" gasped Minnette.

"Harold. It is a very sad case. He was injured in a football scrimmage, a blow on the head and he has not been rational since. But they think by removing a piece of the skull—"

There was more, but neither lady heard it. They endured, however, until Mr. Bowker departed.

"Well," Bessie said as she came in to throw another stick on the fire, "we are going to be rid of that lunatic next door. I'm clear out of patience with his carryings on. Making love to me with his roses and poetry!"

"To you!" Emilie whispered.

Bessie snorted.

Triumphs of Science Increase Life's Span

Now the claim is made that our scientists are about to fight the germ that causes consumption with a remedy furnished by the bacillus itself. In other words, from the poison it puts into the blood, which the scientists at Berkeley say they have discovered and isolated, they hope to make a serum that will repeat the triumphs won in other fields. This gives point to the recent assurance that the span of life is growing far beyond the threescore and ten formerly allotted us. Indeed, we are told that the meager few who reach the century mark are but the advance guard of the multitude to reach and pass far beyond that record in the near future. To the triumphs already won, in case the first redoubt has been carried by some invading disease, must be added the greater triumphs of preventive medicine. The report of the Rockefeller foundation acquaints us with a wonderful work they have accomplished in that direction, not only in this country, but all over the world. The dry pages of the usual report turn out to be an inspiring booklet of great deeds accomplished. Here as elsewhere an ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. All workers engaged in making broad the pathway of health and longevity—and they are to be found everywhere now—insist that optimism, cheerfulness, throwing off worry and fear as you would a discarded garment, and the cultivation of the right mental attitude toward disease is of the utmost importance. Where disease claims one victim, worry and fear claim a score.

We are living in a wonderful age—in fact, we are just beginning to live as the Creator intended us to. It has required untold centuries for man to gain his present vantage ground. He is just beginning to assume his rightful authority over the many ills to which flesh is heir. We will learn to grow old gracefully when double our present tale of years has run its course. And we will need these added years to gain even a passable knowledge of the wonders and beauties and mysteries; the, at present, little-known forces of the universe in which we have been placed.—Los Angeles Times.

Americans Badly Led

The battle of Camden, August 16, 1780, was an overwhelming British victory over the Americans. The American army was practically destroyed as an organization. This branded General Gates for all time as an incompetent military leader.

Forty Hours at Polish Church

Forty Hours' Devotion will start in the Immaculate Conception Church, Delaware avenue, Sunday at the 10:30 a. m. Mass and continue until Tuesday evening when at 7:30 the ceremonies will be brought to a close.

The Rev. Ignatius Bialdyga, pastor of the church, has invited all the societies of the congregation to participate in the devotions. Processions will be held in the church at the opening and closing ceremonies and besides the societies the children of the school will take part.

Services will be held each of the three mornings at 9 o'clock and in the evenings at 7:30 when the Rev. Father Remigrus, Franciscan missionary will preach. The Forty Hours' Devotion is one of the biggest events of the church every year and it is hoped by Father Bialdyga that this year will bring about a bigger celebration than ever.

Freighter and Liner Crash

The Paris was built in 1921, and until the launching of the Ile de France this year, was the flagship of the French line fleet. It is of 83.5 feet beam and 59.1 feet deep.

Saved By Queer Turn.

Captain Ludwig Hassell of the freighter Besseggen, his wife, four year-old son and the families' pet dog "Rex" were saved from probable death today, when their ship was sunk, by a queer turn of fate.

The four clambered into a lifeboat as the freighter began to sink beneath the waves They started to row frantically but, before they could proceed far, the freighter sank with a mighty surge, creating a great whirlpool.

This lifeboat, with its terrified occupants, was being drawn to the whirlpool as if by an unseen power when suddenly the craft was overturned, and all were thrown into the water clear of the suction.

The lifeboat was swallowed in the whirlpool as if by magic.

The four swam about for a few minutes and then they were rescued by the crew of the municipal ferryboat Brooklyn. They were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, on Staten Island, where they were treated for submersion.

"Rex" a German police dog, clambered on a life raft and wagged his tail joyously as rescuers approached.

Civil Service Examinations.

A Federal civil service examination was held at the supervisors' room in the court house, this city, today, of applicants for the position of postmaster at Alligerville, also of a number of applicants for a cadetship at West Point, and of others for appointment for midshipmen at the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The examinations were in charge of Harry G. LeRoy and Robert E. Carpenter of the Kingston post office, representing the Federal civil service commission.

Kiss No Light Matter With Early Christians

Among the early Christians the kiss of peace was a sacred ceremony, observed upon their most solemn occasions. It was called the seal of prayer, and was a symbol of that mutual forgiveness and reconciliation which the church required, as an essential condition before anyone was admitted to the sacraments.

The Roman civilians at length took the kiss under their protection. Their code defined the nature, limits, incidents and such like of the "right of kissing."

The kiss had all the virtue of a bond, granted as a seal to the ceremony of betrothing; and if the husband-elect broke the engagement, repenting of what he had done, he surrendered a molety of the presents received in the ceremony of betrothing, in consequence of the violence done to the modesty of the lady by a kiss.

In much later times the kiss was esteemed to be a ceremony of particular obligation. Julia, in "Two Gentlemen of Verona," after exchanging a ring with her lover, completes the contract by a kiss:

"And seal the bargain with a holy kiss."

The last instance in which the kiss formed the subject of serious regulation was when the Empress Catherine of Russia instituted assemblies of men and women to promote the cultivation of polite manners. Among the rules she directed that "no gentleman should force a kiss from or strike a woman in the assembly, under pain of exclusion."

Doctor's Long Fast in Interests of Science

The first fast of long duration undertaken for scientific purposes, and with the possibility of imposture eliminated, was completed about fifty years ago by Doctor Tanner of New York, who went wholly without food for forty days, from noon of June 29 to noon of August 7, 1880.

During that period there is satisfactory evidence that Doctor Tanner ate no food. He drank very little water and no other liquid whatever. His weight at the beginning of his fast was 157 pounds and at its conclusion 121 pounds, showing a loss of 36 pounds, or almost a pound per day.

He consumed meat and fruit in liberal quantities at the end, showing that the old theory of this being dangerous was not true—at least not in his case.

Mr. Zucca's willingness to cooperate and his intelligent interes in the high type of production which the League is sponsoring was proved to them without any doubt at the Circus Ball and they feel confident o his ability to enhance their performance with his music and later t give the dancers all the very lates dance hits.

Because of the long performanc at the beginning of the evening, several acts of which will not requir orchestral accompaniment, Mr. Zucca will be able to play almost continuously later on and keep even the keenest dancers busy.

Although this first ball of the season promises to be a real occasion and one that no one should miss a wonderful entertainment given fo the benefit of a cause with which we must all sympathize. Tickets for the ball are now on sale at the Connelly Drug Company, Broadway and Strand, O'Reilly's News Store on Broadway, Valentin Burgevin's and E. Winter's Sons.

POULTRY

POULTRY GOOD AS A FARM SIDELINE

There are many ways in which a farmer can get started into the poultry business, and now is the time to begin to plan for a spring start, thinks D. H. Hall, extension poultry husbandman, who makes the following suggestions:

If you have a few pure-bred chickens in your flock, you mate these pure breds and hatch from them. This may seem a little slow for a start, but it pays to start slow in the poultry game. At the end of the year you can have a pure-bred flock by selling all the mongrels off the place.

Another way to get started in the pure bred business is to sell fifteen or twenty mongrels and use this money to buy pure-bred poultry. You may be able to purchase but three hens and a male as a result of your mongrel sale, but it will be one of the best moves you have ever made. After purchasing pure breds be sure to hatch only eggs from this purchase stock. This way is probably the best as you begin to get a cash return from your pure breds at once.

You can also get started by purchasing pure-bred eggs. You can finance the purchasing of these eggs by selling a few mongrel hens. Pure-bred eggs from a reliable breeder will cost you more than mongrel eggs, but they will pay for themselves in better poultry.

Another way to get started in the poultry business is by the purchasing of baby chicks. This way is probably better than buying eggs, as you do not run the chance of obtaining a bad hatch. Baby chicks can be bought from any reliable hatchery about as cheap as you can hatch them yourself.

Poultry House Should Be Thoroughly Cleaned

At some convenient time of the year, give the poultry house and yard an exceptionally thorough cleaning and disinfecting. If a dirt floor is used, dig down six or eight inches, cart the dirt to the field and replace it with clean gravel. With a cement floor, remove the litter and loose dirt and sweep the house to remove all dirt and cobwebs. A thorough application of two parts of stock dip and three parts of kerosene to each and every corner, crack and crevice of the floor, roof, walls, nests, dropping boards, and roosts will do more than any one thing to start the year right. An application of air-slaked lime once a week is a worth while precaution in keeping the ground free from contamination. Have clean litter cover the floor six or eight inches deep. A sloping top to the nest will prevent an accumulation of droppings.

Moist Mash Excellent for the Tardy Pullets

As soon as pullets are bodily matured they should start laying. Fully matured pullets that are not laying may often be brought into production at this time by using a moist mash. The usual laying mash may be moistened with sour skim milk, buttermilk, semi-solid buttermilk and water, dried buttermilk and water, or water fed regularly at noon or some other convenient time. It must be fed at the same time each day and should be crumbly moist, not sloppy. Let the pullets consume all they can in twenty minutes and then take the mash away and thoroughly clean the trough. As soon as production reaches a satisfactory point, the moist mash may be discontinued.

Poultry Squibs

Do not crowd the growing birds. Give them ample room for development.

• • •

Crooked keels and other physical deformities often occur in crowded flocks.

• • •

The males should be kept separated from the pullets until the breeding season begins.

• • •

Do not provide perches with sharp edges. Bumblefoot and other ailments can often be traced to this cause.

• • •

Do not elevate the rosts too high. Bruising of the birds' feet in alighting from the perches causes serious trouble.

• • •

Fowl cholera is a very hard disease to control, due to the nature of the disease, outbreaks often occurring when least expected.

• • •

If the brooder houses are thoroughly scrubbed with boiling lye water they will be free from germs when stored away for the winter.

• • •

With corn at $1 per bushel and wheat at $1.25, poultry raisers can afford to feed more than the usual amount of wheat in place of corn.

• • •

Rolled oats or oatmeal are extensively used in chick feeding, and they are excellent for this purpose. When used as a complete ration they are apt to cause gas.

Agricultural Notes

The laying hen never loafs.

• • •

Silos should be tight enough to keep the juice in and the air out.

• • •

As a cash crop, soy beans can be successfully grown, especially on the lighter and sandier soils.

• • •

The very first step in successful storage of onions is careful curing, and this careful curing must start in the field.

• • •

Rye is an excellent nurse crop for clover seed owing to the fact that it can be cut earlier for grain than either wheat or oats.

• • •

One cannot afford to spend ten dollars' worth of time repairing a machine that is not worth ten dollars after the job is done.

• • •

Successful onion storage demands a cool temperature and low humidity, so it is especially important that they be stored in a well-ventilated place and a place that is as nearly dry as possible.

• • •

Plant food in commercial dried animal manures increased about 40 per cent in cost between 1914 and 1924, reports the New York experiment station. Its average cost today is 42.4 cents a pound, as compared with 10.5 cents a pound in mixed mineral fertilizers.

Local Churches to Care for Children

Relief. Mr. Birge asked the people to stand behind the movement a bit longer and told of the work which had been accomplished and of the work still to be done. Henry M. Fettretch, field representative, also spoke and asked the people of Kingston to lend their assistance. He said that if the people of Kingston could provide for the care of 50 of the children it would be a wonderful thing. The cost of caring for a child was $60 a year.

Dr. Seeley's Suggestion.

Dr. Seeley during a discussion which followed suggested that instead of the Near East Relief sending a speaker to visit each of the churches some Sunday, it might be a good idea to seek the opinion of the meeting which was attended by representatives of some twenty churches. If those present thought it possible, he suggested that the various churches take the responsibility of caring for a certain number of children. His church, he said, would be responsible for the care of 5 or perhaps more. If other churches could care for a few, the necessary 50 could soon be arranged for. The cost is $60 a year or $3,000 for the entire fifty children.

Several of the clergy present immediately stated that their church would be responsible for one, two or more children and although not authorized to take definite action several stated they would assist.

Churches Assume Responsibility.

Dr. Seeley's suggestion was adopted and the fifty children will be cared for through the different churches of the city, each church being responsible for a certain number.

The purpose having been accomplished, the meeting adjourned.

Ulster Airways At Keator Farm

The owners of the Ulster County Airways, Inc., situated at the Widow Keator Farm, across the Washington avenue viaduct, have every reason to expect a very bright future for the air route, ombibus and commercial here, as present reports indicate that the aviators are meeting with great success. Lieutenant Ned Carrington and aviators will be at the farm with their plane today and all day Sunday to take passengers over Kingston for a view from the clouds.

The owner of the Widow Keator Farm, E. S. Vallpour, O. D., is a veteran aviator and entered the field as a pioneer twenty years ago in France.

The Eaglerock plane, property of the Ulster Airways, will be taken to New York next week to be equipped for demonstration and practice flying for students. A visiting Eaglerock plane will land at Kingston's air center today on its way from Denver, Col. The time for the trip from Denver is expected to be approximately sixteen hours.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Excellent reception from the Big Four—for, since WOR increased its power, there is a Big Four—was enjoyed Friday afternoon and evening. And right there we stop, for excepting very weak signals from WHN, WABC, WNAC, WEEI, WHN and WKBO there was no reception. All the rest of the world was dead, so far as radio is concerned.

And at 11 o'clock the buzzer began to buzz, safe in the knowledge that it was too late an hour for the static deteckatives to be aroused from their slumbers and put on the trail.
